3 Smart, Cost-Cutting Reasons To Upgrade Your Peer-To-Peer Network To A Server

If you’ve got a business with 5 or more employees in the office, there are some very compelling reasons you might want to consider upgrading to Microsoft’s Small Business Server:

#1 Instant Remote Access, From Home Or On The Road

Want to work from home as if you are sitting in the office? A server can enable you to do this. Some companies are actually allowing employees to work remotely to save on office space. One client of ours got rid of their expensive office space and has all their employees working from home. This saved them a tremendous amount of money on rent and expenses, and their employees are happier and more productive to boot.

#2 Tighter Security Against Hackers And Viruses

Having a server provides a central point of access that can be defended against hackers and viruses. Since all the PCs on the network connect through that central portal, it’s easier to keep anti-virus updates current and security systems in place. You’ll also be able to manage and monitor employees’ Internet access, block spammers, and automatically remove dangerous e-mail attachments to help prevent virus attacks.

#3 More Complete And Reliable Backups

A server will consolidate all the data residing on your and your employees’ desktops and enable you to back everything up at once. Often companies have over half of their critical data and documents residing on individual PCs. If one of those PCs gets compromised, corrupt or experiences a major hardware failure, you could easily lose all of that data!

Upgrade your network to a server during the month of August and get 3 FREE months of our IT EZ Best Support Services , a $4,500 savings AND a FREE Server, valued at $3,250!

Attention Companies Using VoIP: Here Are Four Cool Tools You Might Not Be Taking Advantage Of!

If you switched to a VoIP service for the cost savings, you might not be aware of the "big business" tools it offers:

Unified Messaging: In simple terms, this means one-stop access to voice mail and e-mail. E-mails can be translated to voice messages, and voice messages can be turned into e-mails. You can also set priorities so messages from key people get to the top of the list, and others...well, go into the "circular file."

Tech Support Stories – Not So Em'powering'

An individual called frustrated that he couldn't turn his computer on. Boy was he embarrassed when we determined he had plugged his power strip back into itself.

A computer store technician stopped by the house of a woman who was having trouble turning on her computer. After asking the lady to turn on her computer he quickly discovered the problem. She had gotten into the habit of turning the computer on by first pressing the power switch on the computer, then the power switch on the monitor. But somehow, they had gotten out of sync, so when the computer was on, the monitor was off, or vice versa. So no matter how many times she flipped both switches, the computer just wouldn't seem to work.

Conferencing: VoIP systems can take the traditional audio conference to the next level, injecting collaboration capabilities so participants can exchange files, sync calendars and (given the right broadband connection) communicate via video.

Find Me/Follow Me: This is a single-number forwarding function that lets callers find you or your employees whether they're at their desks, in a hotel, working from home or on a job site.

Auto Attendant: This feature answers incoming calls, lets you play music or prerecorded messages to callers on hold and supports a voice-mail tree that can route calls by employee to make your small shop appear much bigger to callers.

How To Use Simple Video Messages On Your Web Site To Boost Sales

A fast-growing trend for businesses is using online video "sales letters" to deliver everything from sales presentations and customer testimonials to short educational clips to demo a product. While you certainly want your video to look as professional as possible, the tools needed have become so inexpensive and easy that anyone can create a decent video without a trip to the studio.

The tool we recommend starting with is a Flip Video camera that can be purchased at Target or an electronics retail outlet for under $200 (you can also go online to www.theflip.com). It's super simple to use and contains its own self-installing software that makes it ultra easy to save your video to your computer's hard drive.

We recommend posting your videos to YouTube.com and saving them with certain keywords that are important to your business. From there, your webmaster can post the videos to your web site via YouTube.com. Posting the videos this way will prevent problems with them playing correctly AND will give you an added boost to your company's natural SEO rankings.

According to the marketing experts we researched, adding video to your web page can actually DOUBLE conversion rates and leads generated! Why do they work so well? For starters, some people prefer to get a quick video clip of the "bottom line" instead of reading through a web site. Plus, if you're good in front of people, why not let them "meet" you by watching a quick welcome video of you and your team online. Another powerful way to use video is via testimonials from happy customers. In a world full of skeptics, it's hard to argue with a good video testimonial from a client talking about how you've helped them.

If you've used video on your web site and have a great story to tell, let us know! We'll feature you in an upcoming newsletter.

Weird Facts:

- The great pyramids of Egypt now stand a full three miles south of the spot where they were originally built. That's how much the earth's surface has shifted in the last 4,500 years.
- A strand of spider web is stronger than an equal diameter of steel.
- There are sand dunes in Arcachon, France, that are 350 feet high.
- The whale has the slowest metabolism of all animals. Despite its size, it lives on one of the smallest of all creatures, the microscopic plankton found throughout the sea.

Top Reasons Why Windows Is Not A Virus

Do You HATE Having To Remember All The Passwords For Your Computer And Various Web Sites?

RoboForm Will Make Those Password Headaches Go Away!

If you are like most people, you have a hard time remembering all of the passwords you have to use for various web sites and vendors. Problem is, choosing easy to remember passwords won't thwart the "bad guys." Writing them down is not recommended, and using Microsoft applications to remember your passwords is like walking through a crowd with hundred dollar bills hanging from your pockets.

If you'd like an easy way to not only keep track of all the passwords you use, but also make filling in online forms faster and easier, then I recommend a software product called RoboForm. This inexpensive program completely automates password entering and form filling. The software...

- Memorizes your passwords and logs you in automatically.
- Fills in long registration and checkout forms with one click.
- Encrypts your passwords to achieve complete security.
- Generates random passwords that hackers cannot guess.
- Fights phishing by filling in passwords only on matching web sites.
- Defeats keyloggers by not using the keyboard to type passwords.
- Backs up your passwords and copies them between computers.
- Portable: RoboForm2Go runs from a USB key; no install needed.
- Neutral: works with Internet Explorer, AOL/MSN, Firefox.

Are We REALLY In A Recession?

A 50-year-old Texas accountant named Randy Reeves, paid $1,500 cash in April for the dentist's mold of the upper and lower teeth of Tiny Tim, which the late singer had given to the seller.

In May, the University of Washington ran a two-month campaign of compassion to help out people hurt by the downturn in the economy. Fans of UW's football team who lost their jobs or are otherwise financially unable to renew their Huskies' season tickets can tap into a special philanthropic fund. A donor's $500 tax-deductible gift to "Dawgs Supporting Dawgs" would permit a hard-hit fan to maintain his place on the priority season-ticket list (though this year's seats would be in an inferior location).
